Family business protocol

The Family Protocol is configured as a key instrument to ensure the best relationship between the owner family or families and the business. It establishes the specific key rules of the owner family or families to be observed in the event of any discrepancy between the members, as well as their responsibilities and commitments in respect of the business

The founders, at the appropriate time in their lives, must help provide a set of principles and rules which, in their absence, ensure the stability and future of the business created. The involvement of Auren professional facilitates the acceptance by the family members and executives of the solutions proposed, and avoids any possible misunderstandings and conflicts between the different branches of the family.

Why a family protocol?

- Importance of differentiating between family and business.
- Space for dialogue and consensus of the family or families owning the business.
- It removes uncertainties by objectively regulating the main guidelines for the future management of the business and the family relationships.
- It offers employees and executives of the company security by planning the generational replacement sufficiently in advance.
- Transfer of ownership, management and governance from the company to the next generation has to be the subject of an in-depth analysis, being able to require some reorganization, if any, of the structure of the company to optimize taxation and management.
- Helps to achieve planning business, property and inheritance tax efficient.

Service coverage

A main interlocutor will participate in the entire process, until the final successful implementation of the Family Protocol, and will co-ordinate the different specialists participating in the process. This ensures in-depth knowledge of the cultural features of the business and of the founders, so as to ensure that the Protocol meets their needs and wishes optimally.
